Happy Birthday, Oklahaven!

What's free, refreshing, healthful, exciting and cool? It's the big 25th anniversary party being planned for August 19 at Oklahaven Children's Chiropractic Center, 2245 N.W. 12th Street in Oklahoma City.

Starting at 3:00 p.m. with an official welcome and the mayor's proclamation, the rest of the day, ending about 6:30 p.m. — will be a riot of fun.

Refreshments of Dairy Queen Dilly Bars and birthday cake will be served as the keyboard music of Mrs. Red Rice fills the air. Braum's ice cream certificates will be given away, too.

Saundra Gragg, Oklahaven's development director, said free balloons will fill the air, complete with a balloon lift-off. Face-painting and judo exhibitions will be on the birthday agenda, as well as free scoliosis screening.

Founders and the Oklahaven board of directors will be honored, and Dr. Bobby Doscher, president and director, will be greeting former patients and their parents.

Oklahaven's birthday has been on the air in recent weeks. Art Linkletter, the famous entertainer, recorded a videotape message for Oklahaven. It has been used as a public service announcement on Oklahoma television stations. Linkletter congratulates Oklahaven on its quarter-century of natural, drug-free health care to the children of the state.

So why should you gear up to attend the big event on August 19? Because it will be fun; because you are needed.

Children, parents, friends, anyone . . . all are welcome.
Please come.

From The President

Dr. Bobby Doscher

Oklahaven Children's Chiropractic Center now is looking back on its first quarter-century. (Join in the celebration August 19.)

It is good to look back to where we've been. What's more important is to look ahead to where we're going.

In my seven years at Oklahaven, I have been almost too busy treating children, raising money and running the center to have any time to look up. I have, however, started to look ahead. In 2012, we will hit the big 50! What will Oklahaven be like at 50?

One thing seems certain: Those of you reading this newsletter hold the fate of Oklahaven in your hands. You are the ones who have helped keep the doors open. Your generosity will be the factor that determines whether Oklahaven prospers or withers on the vine.

We have taken one giant step: Sandra Gragg, an Edmond businesswoman, has been serving the past several months as part-time development director. She has made some valuable contacts, and many of you will be hearing from her — if you haven't already. Welcome, Sandra!

It seems to me that each of us — you and I — are going to have to try harder than ever. Our achievements are remarkable. Many children are given health each year. For many, we are the last resort.

We have never turned down a child for lack of ability to pay. We never will! Therefore, we must raise a great deal of money just to pay our operating expenses.

That says nothing about money for expansion. We need better facilities and newer equipment to provide the kind of service we want to give. We need to draw in more of the suffering children and put a smile on their face.

That means we must multiply our efforts to tell our story, to solicit contributions, to serve the community, to heal the children.

So, at the same time we are celebrating our 25th anniversary, let's be looking ahead. And doing better! And carrying on!

SAN ANTONIO NIGHT FIESTA

The salsa was hot.
The beer was cold.
The band was just right.

Those are the highlights of Oklahaven's "San Antonio Night at Union Station". Held June 13 as a fund-raiser for the center, activities included a Southwestern buffet, beverages and the Anita Martiniz Los Viejos Mariachi band. The former Oklahoma City train station was transformed into a border town marketplace for the evening.

Dancing was to the band of Gary P. Nunn and his Sons of the Bunkhouse. Proceeds from the fiesta were targeted for Oklahaven, where no child has ever been refused treatment for lack of ability to pay.

Organizers for "San Antonio Night" included Linda Haneborg, general chairman; Sandra Gragg, Dick Gewin, Lu Hollander, Rik Brewer, Linda Larson, Joe Romano, Carolyn Sims and Claudia Wright.

A big "Muchas Gracias" to all the volunteers and the guests who made the evening such a success! Special thanks to Brian Tinker, Coca Cola Bottling Co., KXY Radio, Star Dance Swan, Mike Carney, Archer's Printing, Christina Leist Interiors, Jewelry Express, Auntie M's Cookies, Garman Kimmell, Great Plains Restaurant, Coors Central Co. and Liberty National Bank and Trust.
